MEET OUR EXECUTIVES

Peter Spitzer H.BCS

Peter has been an ERP and IT infrastructure entrepreneur for over 33 years. He founded several successful companies and now helps our clients optimize their growth strategies using deep knowledge of the manufacturing sector. He accomplishes this through structured business assessments or standalone recommendations to fit the situation. His core strengths in software and hardware solutions allow him to offer companies cost effective ways to collect decision making data. He is hands on and an active contributor to any strategic forum.

Joyce Hughes P.Eng.

A professional engineer with 32 years of manufacturing leadership experience; Joyce brings a wealth of practical knowledge to the table. She has been successful collaborating with C-suite executives to optimize business processes and help them achieve their performance goals. Having led many large teams, she believes that human capital is the most valuable resource for success. Her executive coaching accreditation along with her engineering credentials allow her to help to create your customized solution.

Business Solutions

We are experts when it comes to finding cost effective and right sized business system solutions for your data needs. We become your “Outside-Insider” to make sure your needs are met. With manufacturing, engineering and computer science backgrounds, our team can provide practical business solutions for your challenging problems. We facilitate gap assessments, provide process mapping, and provide implementation assistance for our clients. We can act as your « Outside-Insider » to ensure your needs are met in any ERP, CRM, BI, scheduling, or data collection projects.

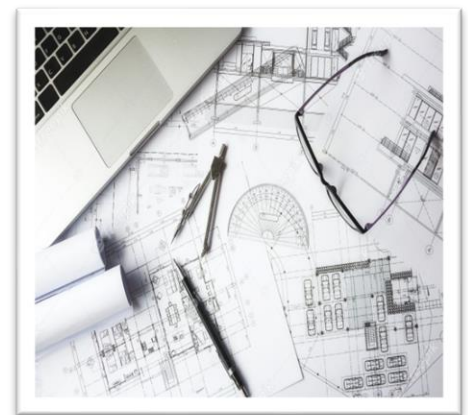

Information Technology

We provide information technology assessment, advisory and maintenance services to support manufacturers and distributors. Backup Systems protect the integrity of computer systems in case of a physical error, human error or hardware/software failure. We protect the usability of your network and data using technologies such as SysPeace, Cisco. We target a variety of threats and prevent them from entering your network. We provide you with detailed recommendation on how to achieve the maximum potential.

Technical Projects

We can implement small projects for test or proof of concept, or large-scale transformational business system design. Small: QR and barcoding, Plant maintenance, Business Intelligence (BI) can make data much more visible. Medium: Machine Vision, Data Collection and Industry 4.0 methodologies can help. Large: Full business system and innovation development.

Executive & Strategic Mentorship

With our Board Certified Coaching Credentials and 30 years in Manufacturing Leadership, we are uniquely qualified to help you with any leadership or culture needs. We provide group, one-on-one coaching and mentorship. Our approach is to emphasize our client's strengths while empowering them to practice new techniques around their improvement goals. If you or your team seem to have a roadblock to success or want to continue your growth journey, contact us today to see how we can help.

Growing Human Capital

If you desire a cohesive, high achieving culture, it is important to understand the personalities of your team. We help to assess the personalities and communication styles of your leadership team and advise the best way to interact for effective results. We offer customized in-house or virtual training sessions that can be designed around your leadership needs. We also offer virtual and live training classes for public offerings that you can pay as you go or join our All-Access Membership where some courses are included.

Soaring Leadership Group

Soaring Leadership Groups are virtual cross-industry membership (no competitors) which provides a rich environment of learning and growth. We meet bimonthly for one hour to review leadership skills and hold break out practice session. We believe that great leaders never stop expanding their knowledge and our concise, confidential format ensures our clients can fit development into their busy schedule.
